Why mourn a flower, that it should droop and die, Exhaling tragrance with its latest sigh? In form and hue, from veined leaf to birth—A bright and marvellous beauty o'er the earth! Its bloom exalis one, like a happy dream—To think that Heaven's benificence should deem Us worthy of so beautiful at thing When Eden closed its universal Spring! That such should bloom the wild to decorate, Which else for man were all too decolate—The tears, the pitring angels wept awhile Were changed to flowers—the Garden's blended smile! And o'er the earth in many a sunny sphere, Their manifold similitudes appear; In form and hue imparting like a flower, The germ of excellence within her breast—Europed by tims of bright celestial hue, So bright, a heavenly spirit dwelled there too. Thine was that fairs a spirit, gentle one! A beam disparted from the setting sun. Which shed a soft effulgence every where, Till thoughts of these aye deepened into prayer: A prayer that ever poured itself to bless—That followed thee with many a mute caress—That followed thee with many a mute caress—That blended o'er thee, like an atmosphere, its soft, sad sigh—its tender dewy tear! Thou wert the gifted and an only child, And "our sear Cherlotte" every care beguind: Each hearth-drawn circle welcome d the swest name, Made dearer by that one tenacious claim.

Though thou wert loved and cherished with such care. Thy youthful form—thy cheek's awakened bloom—Were one wild moment stricken to the tomb! The dark bereavement language may not tell—The speechless anguish, and the last farewell; The broken hearts that cherished thee in vain, That "ne'er will look upon thy like again!"

Weep not the early lost!—the memory of such, like moonlight streaming o'er the sea, Will be unchanged, ner time, nor eare, nor blight, Can mar their image there, so pure and bright!

And Heuvan resumed her thus—so like its own! A atrain of gentle music, soft and lone—

ANTI-RENT TROUBLES .- A letter from Kingston dated 21st instant, gives the following informa-

dated 21st instant, gives the following information:—

I deem it of sufficient interest to apprize you of the result of operations in Uister county. The anti-rent movement extended through the towns of Shandsken, Olive, and a portion of Woodstock. The excursions of the Sheriff's posse were confined, however, to the two former towns, and effected the capture and imprisonment of ten of the "Indians." The Grand Jury, who were empannelled on the 18th instant, were directed, and proceeded to the immediate consideration of the matter. The charge of Judge Ruggles, characterized by his habitual perspicuity, precision and ability, pioneered the way for the jury. The consequence was perceptible in their prompt and efficient action. Witnesses were secured from among the 'Indians' themselves, whose testimony has satisfactorily implicated their leaders. About twelve stills will be found, and among others, probably their speakers and chiefs will be included. The jury, it is supposed, will finish their labors to-morrow, and leave for its proper disposition, the material they have been thus instrumental in preparing, for the cognizance of the laws. The strength of combined action by the "Indians' is now thoroughly paralyzed. A panic terror is operating throughout the seat of these troubles, and numbers, under its influence, have field to the mountains, seaving their helploss and destitute families in a state of distraction, no less than their own. Their return may be exceed, when may be anticipated whintever farther difficulty individual effort, excited by exasperation, may prompt. Such effort cannot, it is thought, control the smantry, but may be manifested in personal opposition to the landlords and their agents, to the temporary obstruction of their duties. The insurrection may therefore be considered as quelled, while its former seat must for some time continue to betray the evidences of recent commotions and their remains. Should Delaware, which admined a fire in the same of the remains and their presence of this county h

New York Legislative Summary.—March, 22 nd, 1845.—In the Senate—Among the petitions was one by Mr. Jones, of ever 8000 citizens of New York, against the passage of the Excise Bill; to close the locks of the canals on the Sabbath; for a railroad from the head of Seneca Lake to Fairport. Mr. Porter made a report on the claim of the contractors on the new line of canal through the village of Rome, in which he charged something like deception upon the Hon Mr. Foster, in the statements made by him while the joint resolution for bringing that portion of the new line of canal inte use was pending, at the last session. Mr. Scovil moved to any the report on the table. Lost, and a motion to print ive times the usual number of copies of the report, was referred to the printing committee. On motion of Mr. Jones, the bill in relation to the excise laws was recommitted, with a view to exempt the city and county of New York from its operation. Mr. Backus introduced a bill to incorporate the University of Western New York. The bill in relation to carrying the United States mail on aniroseds, was read a third time and passed. Also the bill for the preservation of fish in the Hudson river; and the bill to erect the town of Chester in the county of Orange. The bill to enforce the laws and preserve order same to its third reading, and opposed by Messar. Wright, Johnson and Beckman, who objected to the sections charge.

committee of the whole was lost, ayes 8, noes 11. It was finally laid on the table. The Senate held an executive session. Adjourned.

In the Horse—Among the petitions was one by Mr. Bloss, for a plank road from Albany to Buffalo, to be constructed by convict labor. The other petitions were numerous, on the subject of E. railroad, par redemption, discriminating tolls, the closing of the locks on Sunday, the Slack river canal, the carrying of freight on railroads parallel with the canal, &c. Among the bills reported complete, was the bill to extend the docks in the city of Albany; to renew the charter of the Northern Railroad, and to incorporate the Brocklyn City Hospital. Mr. Harris had leave to introduce a bill relative to the collection of taxes in the city of Albany. Mr. Coe reported back with amendments, the bill to provide for the removal of causes from the Canal Board, Mr. Van Valkenton, abili regulating the passenger fare on railroads—reducing it to 3 cents per mile; Mr. A. W. Young, the New York school bill. The committee of the whole, Mr. Howard in the chair, took up the special order, the bill to authorise the connection of the Dansville slip and basin with the bracch of the Genessee Valley canal. The bill was debated by Messrs. Coe and J. Young in favor, and by Messrs. Niven and Comstock in opposition—when the committe rose and reported progress—Mr. Comatock not naving concluded. The bill, on motion of Mr. J. Young, was again made the special order for Monday at 11 e'clock. Adjourned.—Albany Argus, March 22.

DIGNITARIES ARRESTED—The Senate of Michigan have got into a pretty muse, for which the people have to pay the piper. It appears that Judge Wilkins, and the U.S. Circuit Court, issued a warrent for the arrest of Senator Williams, which was served by Deputy Marshal Gillit. The Senate were so indignant at the arrest of one of their honorable body, that the arrest of the Judge. Marshal and Clerk of the U.S. Court, was at once ordered, for a breach of privilege. The arrests were made by the Senate at Arms—and Judge W, when arraigned, refused to respond, except to deny the jurisdiction of the Senate This nonplussed the Senate for a time but it was finally decided to make the whole matter the special order of the day. Preliminary arrangements for the trial for contempt were made, and the prisoners were suffered to go on parole to appear when wanted.

In the Detroit papers brought by the States, we find plentiful allusions to the contempt, but not all intelligible by reason of our files not being full, Judge Wilkins, when offered permission to go at large, upon his promise to attend when notified, pointedly and decidedly refused to give the promise. Whereupon, the Senate did not send aim to jail.

The Explant Figure—The "Van Buren (Ark).

The Indian Figur.—The "Van Buren (Ark.) Intelligencer" of March 4th, saye—The skirmish which we spoke of last week as having taken place between a portion of the Pawnee Mahs, and a party of Creeks, turns out to have been between the Osages and Creeks. The Osage dross resembles the Pawnee in almost every particular, and the Greeks themselves supposed their essailants to have been Pawnee Mahas. The excitement is very great in the Greek Nation, and various rumors are afloat in regard to the sifair. Captain Boone, as soon as information of the skirmish reached Fort Gibson, was ordered to the place of action with his company of Dregoons, and he sent in to Fort Gibson for reinforcements; from which place two companies of Infantry have proceeded to join him, but if he should have need of their services, and has to await their tardy approach, the Indians can commit any depredations they wish, and be off unmoiested. The idea of placing infantry soldiers upon a frontier like this, when disturbances are so frequent, to us, seems ridiculous. The Indians are generally mounted when on predatory excursions, and are too wily to await the tardy approach of Uncle Sam's infantry to punish them for their misseeds. At Fort Gibson, at the time of the outbreak, there was but from appearances, were not able to quell the disturbances and had to send for the reinforcement mentioned.

SARDINIAN SURVEYING VOYAGE.—The Polynesian of September 7, Rolices the arrival at the port of Honolulu, of His Sardinian Majesty's brig L'Eredano.—This vessel was on a surveying voyage, and had been absent two years. She was expected to proceed from Honolulu to the coast of Mexico, 'here to be joined by a sixty gun frigate of the same nation, having on board a Prince of the reigning family of Sardinia. This vessel, (the Eredano, 'remarks the editor, is the first representative of the Mediterranean powers that had anchored in the waters of Howaii. Her appearance was warmly greeted and salutes were exchanged with her from the lort.

The Principles of Forensic Medicine—with so much of Anatomy, Physiology, Pathology, and the Practice of Medicine and Surgery, as are essential to be known by Lawyers, Coroners, Magistrates, Officers of the Army and Navy, &c., by WM. A Guy, M. B.—Edited by C. A. Lee, M. D.—Harper & Brothers

The author of this work is one of the most distinguished Professors of Forensic Medicine in Great Britain, and he has aimed to present as clearly and concisely as possible, all the important principles and facts of medical jurisprudence, relieved of everything not belonging immediately to the subject, and fitted at once for a text book for students, and a mannal for legal and medical practitioners. His very difficult task seems to have been executed with great ability and discretion.—

The style and arrangement of the work are simple and lucid, and all details not essential to the understanding of the subject have been omitted. The work has been universally regarded, both in Europe and America, as the best of its kind ever published, and the American edition has done good service to the profession in this country by causing it to be reprinted, and especially by the full and valuable additions which he has made. He has thus adapted it admirably to the peculiar laws and institutions of this country, and of course, for American students and readers, materially enhanced its value.

The work is issued in a large and very handtican students and readers, materiany ennanced its value.

The work is issued in a large and very handsomely printed octavo volume, and forms a most important accession to the list of standard medical works which the Harpers have recently issued—All persons, both at home and abroad, will receive additional confirmation of its authentic and standard character, from the statement in the preface that the counsel of Chancellor Kent has been tolowed in all matters involving questions of lega

An Infamous Case.—Mary Fazette, an innocent, rtless girl, some fifteen years old, and of rather a prepersessing appearance, was brought before the magistrates in New Orleans on the 14th instant, charged with inceny. It appeared that she was engaged by a Mary thompson to attend a cigar store. She gave the girl a new dress and some trinkets, such as ear-rings, a necknee, ke, to make her "attractive" in the store, as she termed it. She went further; for, ac ording to the oath it the girl herself, who swore she overheard the infamous bargain she had concluded with some wretch possessing the lineaments of a man, that for the sum of $300 the poor young creature was to be made the victim of dishonor. Becoming alarmed at the danger of her position, the flew to the humble but homest roof of her mother, aking with her the dress and trinkets which Miss Thompon had given her. This was the extent of her their version had given her. This was the extent of her their term lay her crime! The Recorder discharged the complaint, regretting that there was not a law to punish the complainant.

Seduction and Its Consequences — A few days

Most Applicting Drath.—Captain Samuel H. Marshall, of the ship Powhattan, a few days since arrived from Liverpoel, was sociedentally drowned in the bay on Tuesday night last, and that, too, under the most afflicting circumstances. Upon his arrival in port, he visited the city, leaving his wife and one child on board his vessel, at the lower shipping anchorage. On Tuesday night he started on the schooner Nimrod, (a lighter) to go down to his vessel, with the intention of bringing his wife and child up to the city. Dreadful Rage of an Elephant—His Kerfer Killed.—The last "New Orleans Bee" gives at account of the killing of his keeper, by the male E' hant of Hopkins & Co.'s menagerie. He refused to loss a bridge at Baton Rouge, on the 8th.

The keeper, who was on foot, procured a heat, (one which the elephant was not accustomed to) for the purpose of driving it over, and in attempting to rount, the borie shyed, and threw the man in the food. The elephant meediately tushed upon, caught him upon his tusks, and threw him 40 feet in the air; which was repeated a number of times, the tusks frequently passing through his body. It then carried the body from the road towards he woods tossing it in the air at intervals, until it fell between two fallen trees.

The inturiated animal returned to the road, where the male elephant and camel had been chained to a tree by another keeper, and rushed upon them, his tusks passing hrough the camel, knocking down the female and breaking the chain in two. He then made off towards the woods, carrying the camel by his trunk, and throwing it at intervals in the air with his tusks. The othersportion of the carawan now coming to the bridge, the elephant reurned and made demonstrations of an attack.

Shots were fired upon it, but without effect. Word was then sent to the U.S. garrison, and some thirty or orty of the soldlers were sent to despatch it with their enakets. The neighbors also turned out and some 60 hots were fired upon it, but without effect.
